Short Description

Natural honey from the Heart of the Europe, from Slovakia

Description

Flower honey is a honey of high nutrition value and this is due to the great amount of different substances that are included in it. From these substances the dominant ones are metals and trace elements (calcium, magnesium, zinc, iron, copper etc.) which are traced in big concentrations in the Slovak flower honey. The odors that are found in Slovak nature's flower honey can even arouse the senses of the most demanding consumer. Read more HERE.
